

Clinical Ethics and Conscience Rights Conference

June 6–8, 2019
Cedarville University
Cedarville, Ohio

As a scholar or practitioner from the field of philosophy, political science, nursing, medicine, pharmacy, or law, you may be directly affected by proposed rules that would protect the rights of healthcare workers who have religious or moral objections to medications, treatments, or procedures. Join us for a three-day conference that will examine these proposed rules and how we should respond to them.

Keynote address by: Robert George

McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence and Director of the James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institution, Princeton University

Call for Presentation Abstracts

You are invited to submit presentation abstracts from all fields as well as on interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary issues that cut across professions, such as biomedical, educational, public health, and research.

- Abstracts should be no longer than 500 words.
- Abstracts must be submitted no later than February 1st, 2019.
- Please attach abstracts to an email and send to Dennis Sullivan at sullivan@cedarville.edu with “Clinical Ethics and Conscience Rights submission” in the subject line.
- Selected conference papers will be published in the Academy’s Elsevier journal: Ethics, Medicine and Public Health.

*Sponsored by
The Cedarville University Center for Bioethics, the Northern Plains Ethics
Institute at NDSU, and the International Academy of Medical Ethics*